- Welcome Address and Honor by Dr. Vidhu Shekhar Pandey (Convener, ICSSR Sponsored National Seminar)

Dr. Pandey says that- It is indeed a matter of immense pride and privilege for me to stand before this august gathering on the occasion of the ICSSR sponsored National Seminar on 'Relevance of the Samagam in Global Peace and Security'. On behalf of the convener of this National Seminar, I extend my heartfelt welcome to each one of you present here today. We are deeply honored by the gracious presence of our founder chancellor Hon'ble Shri J.N. Misra Ji and Hon'ble chancellor Shri Manish Mishra Ji, whose vision and guidance continue to inspire us in every academic endeavor. Our special gratitude to the chief Guest Hon'ble Prof. Himanshu Shekhar Jha Ji, whose remarkable contribution in the field of education and social empowerment is truly commendable.

We also express our sincere appreciation to Guest of Honor Prof. P.K. Sahoo Ji, a distinguished academician and former vice-chancellor, University of Allahabad, whose scholarly insights continue to enlighten generation of learners. We are equally privileged to have Prof. Hariom Tripathi Ji as our keynote speaker, who will enrich us with his profound reflections on the theme of this seminar.

A warm welcome also to our Hon'ble Vice-chancellor, Prof. Rohit Ramesh Ji and Pro-vice-chancellor Dr. S.C. Tiwari Ji, whose constant encouragement and dynamic leadership have always guided our University towards excellence. I also extend a cordial welcome to Registrar, Dr. Himanshu Tandon Ji, all Deans, Head of Department, Faculty members, researchers, students and all participant's who have joined us from various institutions across the country.

Let me also acknowledge with deep respect the support of all University staff members, including our administrative and fourth-grade employees, whose dedicated efforts contribute silently to the success of every academic event. This academic congregation aims to provide a platform for thoughtful dialogue, research-based discussions, and cross disciplinary insights that can help shape a peaceful and inclusive global society. One again, I welcome you all and express my heartfelt gratitude for your presence and participation. May this seminar bring forth fruitful discussions, meaningful collaborations and intellectual enlightenment for all of us.

- Ashirvachan by Hon'ble Founder Chancellor Shri J.N. Misra Ji-

Shri Misra says that- it gives me immense pleasure to convey my heartfelt blessings and good wishes to the organizers, participants and delegates of the ICSSR sponsored National Seminar on 'Relevance of Samagam in Global Peace and security. The theme of this seminar is both timely and significant, as it highlights the need for dialogue, understanding, and unity in a world often divided by differences. The idea of Samagam-a harmonious confluence of thoughts, cultures and values- reflects the very essence of Indian philosophy and the spirit of Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam, the world as one family. I deeply appreciate to efforts of the entire organizing committee for taking this noble initiative to promote peace-oriented education and intellectual exchange. It may firm belief that such academic gatherings not only enrich our understanding but also inspire us to contribute meaningfully towards building a peaceful and compassionate world.

- Introduction of Seminar & About University by Mr. S.S. Misra Ji-

Mr. Mishra says that the idea of samagam-a coming together of thoughts, cultures and human values is deeply rooted in our Indian ethos. In today's world, where conflicts and divisions threaten peace and security, this seminar becomes highly meaningful. It provides a platform for scholars and thinkers to exchange ideas on how collective consciousness and dialogue can contribute to a more harmonious and peaceful world. Through this academic initiative, we seek to emphasize that true peace can only emerge from understanding, cooperation and shared human values. The deliberations over the coming sessions will surely help us reflect on how education can serve as a bridge toward global harmony.

- Keynote speech by Hon'ble Prof. Hariom Tripathi Ji-

Prof. Tripathi says that- The present era of globalization, technological progress has brought the world closer materially, yet emotionally and culturally, humanity often stands divided. Conflicts, inequalities, and mistrust have created barriers that threaten peace and stability across nations. In such a context, the concept of Samagam holds immense importance- it calls for dialogue over discord, understanding over prejudice and cooperation over competition.

(Releasing the book titled "Mental Health of Adolescents" written by Dr. Vidhu Shekhar Pandey, Convener of the Seminar)

- Address by Hon'ble Pro-Vice chancellor, NGB (DU) Prayagraj-

Dr. S.C. Tiwari says that- this seminar reflects the deep academic and moral responsibility of our university to engage with themes that are not only intellectually significant but also socially transformative. The idea of Samagam a confluence of thoughts, values, and cultures is timeless. It reminds us that peace and security are not merely political goals but human imperatives, rooted in understanding, compassion, and cooperation. The world today faces challenges of division, intolerance, and conflict. In such a scenario, the Samagam of ideas and perspectives as encouraged through this seminar can serve as a foundation for building global harmony. When scholars, thinkers, and educators comes together to deliberate on peace and coexistence, they plant the seeds of a more inclusive and compassionate future.

- Address by Guest of Honor Prof. P.K. Sahoo Ji, Hon'ble Former Vice-chancellor, University of Allahabad-

Prof. Sahoo says that the theme of this seminar is not only relevant but also visionary. The term Samagam reflects the spirit of togetherness- the meeting of minds and the blending of values. In the Indian cultural and philosophical context, Samagam signifies harmony amidst diversity, unity amidst differences, and peace amidst conflict. In today's world, where nations are connected by technology but divided by ideology, the call for Samagam is more important than ever before. Peace and security cannot be achieved merely through treaties or institutions; they must be cultivated through understanding, education, and dialogue among individuals and communities.

- Address by Chief Guest Prof. Himanshu Shekhar Jha, Hon'ble State Commissioner, Persons with Disabilities, U.P.-

Prof. Jha told that the concept of Samagam- the meeting of minds, values, and ideas is deeply relevant in today's world. Peace and security cannot be achieved merely through agreements or power; they require understanding, dialogue, and cooperation among individuals and communities. Education plays a central role in this process. Universities are not just centers of knowledge; they are spaces where young minds learn empathy, ethics, and the value of human coexistence. Seminars like this provide a platform for scholars, researchers, and students to engage in meaningful dialogue that fosters harmony and global peace.

- Presidential Address by Hon'ble Vice-chancellor, NGB (DU), Prayagraj, Prof. Rohit Ramesh Ji-

Prof. Rohit Ramesh ji says that It is indeed a moment of great pride and satisfaction to preside over this National Seminar that seeks to explore the “Relevance of the Samagam in Global Peace and Security.” Our university has always believed that education is not only a means of knowledge acquisition but also a pathway to human unity, ethical consciousness, and sustainable peace. The concept of Samagam, meaning coming together, dialogue, and mutual understanding, carries deep significance in our civilization heritage. In the current global scenario marked by conflict, inequality, and disconnection, the idea of Samagam reminds us that peace cannot be imposed-it must be cultivated through empathy, cooperation, and shared values. I appreciate the Department of Teacher Education and department of sociology for choosing such a timely and meaningful theme, aligning perfectly with the vision of the National Education Policy (NEP 2020), which emphasizes holistic development, value-based education, and global citizenship. Through this seminar, scholars, academicians, and practitioners will deliberate on how education, research, and innovation can serve as instruments of peace-building. It will also highlight how teachers, as moral leaders and social architects, can nurture a generation committed to non-violence, inclusively, and human dignity.

- Vote of Thanks by Hon'ble Registrar, NGB (DU), Prayagraj- Dr. Himanshu Tandon Ji-

Dr. Tandon says that- on behalf of Nehru Gram Bharati (Deemed to be University), I take this opportunity to extend my heartfelt thanks to everyone who has contributed to the successful organization of this National Seminar on “Relevance of the Samagam in Global Peace and Security.” First and foremost, I express our deepest gratitude to our Founder Chancellor Hon’ble Shri J. N. Misra ji and Hon’ble Chancellor Shri Manish Mishra ji for their continued guidance, inspiration, and blessings, which motivate us to pursue academic excellence. We are extremely honoured by the gracious presence of our Chief Guest Hon’ble Prof. Himanshu Shekhar Jha ji, whose insights on education, inclusively, and social harmony have enriched our understanding of the seminar’s theme. Our sincere thanks to Guest of Honour Prof. P. K. Sahoo ji, whose distinguished academic experience and wisdom have greatly enhanced the value of this event. I would also like to thank Prof. Hariom Tripathi ji, our Keynote Speaker, for sharing his scholarly perspectives and inspiring all participants. I extend special appreciation to Dr. Vidhu Shekhar Pandey, Convener of this seminar, for his tireless efforts in organizing and coordinating this academic gathering. Thanks are also due to all Deans, Heads of Departments, faculty members, researchers, and students, whose active participation has made this seminar truly meaningful. Finally, I thank all university staff, administrative teams, and support personnel, whose dedication behind the scenes ensured the smooth conduct of this seminar.

Plenary Session (Ist and IInd Parallel)

Plenary Session-I (12:15 - 1:15 PM)

Sub theme :

1. Peace education in the digital age.
 2. Spirituality as a foundation for global peace.
 3. Critical thinking and media literacy in peace discourse.
 4. Integrating peace education in teacher education curriculum.
 5. Artificial intelligence and ethical responsibility for peace.
- Chair person : Prof. Akanksha Singh (University of Lucknow, U.P.)
 - Convener : Dr. Shivashrey Yadav, NGB (DU), Prayagraj.
 - No. of Presentation is 23.

Prof. Akanksha Singh says that- Peace education in the digital era emphasizes equipping learners with not only knowledge but also critical thinking, empathy, and ethical digital citizenship. Students must learn to navigate information responsibly, resolve conflicts constructively online, and foster understanding across cultures and communities. Digital tools, when guided with wisdom, can become powerful instruments to promote dialogue, collaboration, and global harmony. Teachers today are not just educators of subjects; they are innovators of peace and social harmony. They have the unique responsibility to shape minds and hearts, encouraging learners to become agents of positive change. Teachers can integrate peace-building activities, collaborative projects, and intercultural exchanges into the curriculum. By modeling tolerance, inclusively, and ethical decision-making, teachers inspire students to practice these values in society.

They act as connectors across communities, nurturing a generation that sees diversity as strength and conflict as an opportunity for understanding. In this way, teachers become global peace innovators, whose influence reaches far beyond the classroom, contributing to a more compassionate and united world. Spirituality, in its broad and inclusive sense, emphasizes inner awareness, self-reflection, and universal values such as compassion, honesty, and non-violence. These values are foundational for building sustainable peace at both personal and societal levels. When individuals cultivate inner peace, it naturally translates into harmonious relationships with others. Spirituality encourages empathy and respect for all beings, transcending cultural, religious, and national boundaries. Incorporating spirituality in education can strengthen moral reasoning, ethical leadership, and global citizenship, which are essential for addressing contemporary global challenges. Thus, peace education, teacher innovation, and spirituality together create a holistic framework for nurturing a world that is not only technologically advanced but also ethically grounded, compassionate, and peaceful.

Plenary Session-II (12:15- 1:15 PM)

Sub themes :

1. Teachers as global peace innovators.
 2. Teacher as a peace influencer.
 3. Equity and inclusion in education through Samagam.
 4. Non-violence and humanitarian values in Samagam.
 5. Youth engagement and moral leadership through Samagam.
- Chair person : Dr. Ruchi Dubey, University of Allahabad, Prayagraj.
 - Convener : Dr. Ramendra Tiwari, NGB (DU), Prayagraj.
 - No. of presentation-18

Dr. Ruchi Dubey told that- In the context of Samagam, which signifies the confluence of ideas, values, and cultures, the role of a teacher extends far beyond traditional instruction. Teachers today are peace influencers, shaping not only knowledge but also the moral and social conscience of their students. Teachers have the unique ability to instill empathy, understanding, and tolerance in young minds. By fostering dialogue, collaboration, and respect for diverse perspectives, teachers help students resolve conflicts peacefully and build harmonious relationships. A teacher's example through actions, communication, and values- becomes a powerful tool for shaping ethical and socially responsible citizens. Non-violence (Ahimsa) is a cornerstone of peaceful coexistence. Teachers can integrate non-violent approaches into classroom management, group activities, and conflict resolution, demonstrating that disputes can be resolved without aggression. Cultivating non-violence in thought, speech, and action helps learners internalize the principle as a lifelong practice. Samagam is not merely a gathering; it is a platform for nurturing universal humanitarian values such as compassion, justice, equality, and service to others. Teachers can use Samagam to highlight global and local issues, encouraging students to act with social responsibility and humaneness. When humanitarian values are embedded in education, students grow into conscious global citizens capable of promoting peace, cooperation, and social welfare.

- Lunch Break- 1:15 - 2:15 PM

Technical Session-I (2:15 - 4:00 PM)
Parallel Session (Online and offline mode)

Sub theme :

1. Integration of values in education and policy making.
 2. Interfaith and intercultural harmony in teacher training.
 3. Universal values and moral philosophy.
- Chair Person : (1) Dr. Avinash Pandey, ISDC, Prayagraj
(2) Prof. P.K. Pandey, UPRTOU, Prayagraj (online mode)
 - Convener : Dr. Abhishek Tiwari, NGB (DU), Prayagraj
 - No. of presentation-20

Dr. Avinash Pandey says that- Education should not be compartmentalized; instead, it must blend academic learning with moral, social, and emotional development. Interdisciplinary and experiential approaches help students see connections between knowledge and society, fostering critical thinking, problem-solving, and ethical reasoning. Integration encourages global awareness and cultural sensitivity, preparing learners to navigate diverse communities peacefully and responsibly. Educational policies must be designed to support inclusive, equitable, and comprehensive learning experiences. Policies should promote collaboration between educators, researchers, government agencies, and civil society to ensure that educational outcomes align with societal needs. Integration at the policy level ensures coherence between curriculum design, teacher training, assessment, and community engagement, making education a powerful tool for social transformation and peace-building.

Prof. P.K. Pandey says that- Universal values are principles that transcend culture, religion, and nationality, forming the foundation of ethical and peaceful living. Core values include truth, honesty, empathy, compassion, justice, respect, and non-violence. By instilling universal values, education fosters global citizenship, helping students appreciate diversity while acting responsibly within society. Moral philosophy provides the framework to understand ethical dilemmas, make reasoned choices, and reflect on the consequences of actions. Through the study of moral philosophy, learners develop the ability to critically evaluate right and wrong, understand the impact of their behavior, and cultivate inner discipline. Integrating moral philosophy in education nurtures self-awareness, social responsibility, and ethical leadership. Universal values and moral philosophy together create a holistic foundation for peace education.

Day-II Wednesday, 01 October, 2025
Parallel Session (IIIrd and IVth)
Plenary Session-III
(10:00 - 12:00 PM)

Sub theme :

1. Samagam in the era of global crises (War, Climate, Migration).
 2. Ancient Indian Knowledge System and society.
- Chair Person : Dr. Patanjali Mishra, University of Allahabad
 - Convener : Dr. Pradeep Mishra, NGB (DU), Prayagraj
 - No. of presentation-22

Dr. Patanjali Mishra says that- Ancient Indian knowledge was integrated and holistic, combining spiritual, moral, intellectual, and practical dimensions of life. Texts like the Vedas, Upanishads, Arthashastra, and Dharmashastras provide insights into ethics, governance, education, and societal responsibilities. Education was seen as a means to develop character, wisdom, and social responsibility, not merely as the acquisition of information. Knowledge was directly linked to societal well-being, emphasizing harmony, justice, and collective welfare. Principles such as Dharma (duty), Ahimsa (non-violence), Satya (truth), and Seva (service) guided human interactions and governance. Ancient Indian education aimed to create individuals who were ethical, socially conscious, and capable of contributing positively to their communities. The ancient Indian knowledge system provides valuable lessons for modern education and societal development. By integrating its values, ethics, and holistic perspective into contemporary curricula, we can cultivate individuals who are morally responsible, socially aware, and globally conscious. This approach fosters not only academic excellence but also the ethical, spiritual, and humanitarian development necessary for building peaceful and resilient societies.

Plenary Session-IV

(10:00 - 12:00 PM)

Sub theme :

1. Inclusion of community participation and youth empowerment.
2. Mental and emotional well-being through collective spirituality.

- Chair Person : Dr. Pratik Upadhyaya
- Convener : Dr. Kiran Singh, NGB (DU), Prayagraj
- No. of presentation- 17
- Chair Person : Dr. Shalini Singh (online mode)
- Convener : Dr. Pushpanjali Pal
- No. of presentation-21 (online)

Dr. Upadhyaya says that- In our fast-paced world, we often focus on physical fitness, professional success, and social status but somewhere along the way, we forget to ask: How am I feeling? Am I truly well inside? Mental well-being is not just the absence of illness it is the presence of balance, awareness, and inner peace. Emotional well-being means understanding our feelings, expressing them appropriately, and building healthy relationships with ourselves and others.

Dr. Shalini Singh says that- Community participation ensures that education and development initiatives are grounded in local needs and realities. Involving community members in decision-making fosters ownership, responsibility, and social cohesion. Through participatory approaches, communities contribute to peace-building, conflict resolution, and social welfare, reinforcing the values of empathy, cooperation, and shared responsibility. Youth are the drivers of change and the torchbearers of future societal progress. Empowering youth involves providing them with knowledge, skills, opportunities, and ethical guidance to become socially responsible citizens. When youth are actively engaged, they develop leadership abilities, civic consciousness, and a commitment to humanitarian values, contributing positively to both local and global communities.

Technical Session (IInd and IIIrd Parallel)
(12:15 - 1:30 PM)
Technical Session-II
(12:15 - 1:30 PM)

Sub theme:

1. Mindful use of artificial intelligence in education.
 2. Role of teachers in sustainable development goals and global peace.
- Chair person : Dr. Shailesh Yadav, ISDC, Prayagraj
 - Convener : Dr. Devendra Yadav, NGB (DU), Prayagraj
 - No. of presentation-23

Dr. Shailesh Yadav says that- Teachers are essential in promoting awareness and understanding of SDGs among students and communities. Through education, teachers can instill values of equality, justice, environmental stewardship, and responsible citizenship, which are core to achieving the SDGs. By integrating SDG principles into curriculum and pedagogy, teachers prepare students to address global challenges, including poverty, climate change, gender inequality, and social injustice. Teachers cultivate empathy, tolerance, and conflict resolution skills in learners, which are critical for sustaining peace at local, national, and global levels. Through activities like dialogue-based learning, collaborative projects, and intercultural exchange, teachers help students appreciate diversity and resolve differences peacefully. A teacher's ethical example, communication, and guidance make them influencers of peace, shaping a generation that values cooperation over conflict.

- Vote of thanks by Dr. Vidhu Shekhar Pandey, NGB (DU), Prayagraj.

Technical Session-III
(12:15 - 1:30 PM)

Sub theme : Skill development, employability and social security in the context of NEP-2020.

- Chair person : Prof. Ajay Kumar Dubey, V.V.S. Purvanchal University, Jaunpur (online mode)
- Convener : Dr. Rajesh Kumar Tiwari, NGB (DU), Prayagraj
- No. of presentation-13

Prof. Ajay Kumar Dubey says that- NEP 2020 promotes multidisciplinary learning and vocational education from an early stage, ensuring that students acquire practical and professional skills alongside academic knowledge. Teachers play a crucial role in identifying, nurturing, and enhancing students' skills, preparing them to meet the demands of a rapidly evolving job market. Skill development under NEP emphasizes creativity, critical thinking, problem-solving, digital literacy, and entrepreneurial abilities, enabling learners to thrive in diverse career paths. The integration of skill-based learning with higher education improves employability, bridging the gap between academia and industry. NEP encourages internships, experiential learning, and industry-academia collaborations, giving students hands-on experience and confidence to succeed professionally. Teachers, as mentors and facilitators, guide students in career planning, competency building, and professional ethics, enhancing their readiness for the workforce. NEP 2020 emphasizes equitable access to education for all, including marginalized, differently-abled, and economically disadvantaged students. Skill development and employability initiatives must be complemented with social security measures, ensuring that all learners can participate fully and benefit from educational opportunities. Teachers, through inclusive pedagogy and mentoring, ensure that education empowers every student to achieve economic independence and social dignity. By focusing on skill development, employability, and social security, NEP 2020 aligns education with national development goals, contributing to economic growth, social justice, and a skilled workforce.

- Lighting of lamp by the distinguished guests.
- Welcome Address and Honour by Dr. Ashish Shivam, Research Director, NGB (DU), Prayagraj.

Dr. Shivam says that- It is my immense pleasure to welcome you all to this valedictory session of the National Seminar on “Relevance of the Samagam in Global Peace and Security.” This seminar has provided a unique platform for scholars, educators, and researchers from various fields to come together, share ideas, and deliberate on the theme of Samagam- the confluence of thoughts, values, and cultures for fostering global peace and social harmony. Hon’ble Founder Chancellor Shri J. N. Misra ji and Hon’ble Chancellor Shri Manish Mishra ji, for their visionary guidance and continuous support in promoting academic excellence. Hon’ble Chief Guest Prof. Ram Mohan Pathak ji, Hon’ble Special Guest Prof. Ramesh Sharma ji, Guest of Honour Prof. Ashish Saxena ji, and Chief Speaker Prof. Durgesh Tripathi ji, for sharing their profound insights and enriching the seminar with their expertise. Hon’ble Vice-Chancellor Prof. Rohit Ramesh ji and Hon’ble Pro-Vice-Chancellor Dr. S. C. Tiwari ji, for their leadership and encouragement in facilitating this academic gathering. Organizing committee for his tireless efforts in conceptualizing, organizing, and coordinating the seminar. Faculty Members, Researchers, Students, and University Staff, for their active participation, thought-provoking questions, and collaborative spirit, which made this seminar a truly engaging and insightful experience. This seminar has successfully strengthened the dialogue on education, ethics, global peace, and social values, and I am confident that the knowledge, perspectives, and connections gained here will continue to guide us in building a more harmonious and enlightened society. Once again, I extend my heartfelt welcome and gratitude to all dignitaries, participants, and guests for making this seminar a grand success.

- Address by Hon'ble Pro-Vice-chancellor, Dr. S.C. Tiwari.

Dr. Tiwari says that- this National Seminar on “Relevance of the Samagam in Global Peace and Security” has been truly remarkable in terms of academic rigor, intellectual engagement, and collaborative learning. The participation of distinguished scholars, educators, and researchers has enriched the discussions and provided valuable insights into the theme of Samagam- highlighting the importance of dialogue, inclusivity, and shared values in fostering global peace. The dedication of the Convener and organizing team, whose meticulous planning ensured smooth execution of all sessions. Active engagement of speakers and participants, whose presentations, discussions, and interactions enhanced the depth and relevance of the deliberations. Support from university leadership, including our Founder Chancellor, Chancellor, Vice-Chancellor, and all administrative teams, which made this academic gathering possible. I congratulate all participants, faculty members, and organizers for making this seminar a platform of knowledge sharing, reflection, and inspiration. Such initiatives not only strengthen academic excellence but also promote the values of peace, harmony, and social responsibility among students, researchers, and society at large.

- Address by Hon'ble Chief Speaker, Prof. Durgesh Tripathi, (G.G.I.S., New Delhi)

Prof. Tripathi told that- It is an honour to address this valedictory session of the National Seminar on “Relevance of the Samagam in Global Peace and Security.” Over the course of the seminar, we have engaged in enlightening discussions, insightful presentations, and meaningful exchanges of ideas, all centered on the concept of Samagam- the coming together of minds, knowledge, and values to foster peace and harmony in society and across nations. The seminar has successfully integrated perspectives from education, ethics, social sciences, and policy-making, demonstrating the importance of a multidisciplinary approach to peace and global harmony. The participation of distinguished scholars and researchers has provided rich insights into how teachers, educational institutions, and communities can play a central role in nurturing values of empathy, non-violence, and social responsibility. The deliberations have also emphasized the relevance of spirituality, universal values, and youth engagement as foundations for building sustainable peace in local and global contexts. I congratulate the convener, organizing team, and all participants for making this seminar a remarkable platform for dialogue and knowledge sharing. Such initiatives not only strengthen academic scholarship but also encourage practical steps toward peace, ethical leadership, and societal development.

- Address by Hon'ble Guest of honour- Prof. Ashish Saxena, University of Allahabad.

Prof. Ashish Saxena told that- It is indeed a privilege to address the valedictory session of this National Seminar on “Relevance of the Samagam in Global Peace and Security.” Over the course of the seminar, we have witnessed inspiring presentations, rich discussions, and valuable exchanges of knowledge, which collectively underscore the importance of dialogue, collaboration, and shared values in fostering global peace and social harmony. The seminar has effectively brought together diverse perspectives from education, social sciences, and policy-making, demonstrating the interconnectedness of knowledge and social action. The discussions emphasized the critical role of teachers, youth, and communities in promoting non-violence, empathy, humanitarian values, and ethical leadership. The insights shared during the seminar will guide future research, educational practices, and community initiatives, contributing to building more peaceful and inclusive societies.

- Address by Hon'be Special Guest- Prof. Ramesh Sharma (Vivekanand Institute of Professional Studies, New Delhi)

Prof. Sharma says that- It is indeed a privilege to address the valedictory session of this National Seminar on “Relevance of the Samagam in Global Peace and Security.” The seminar has successfully brought together scholars, educators, and researchers to deliberate on the essential role of dialogue, ethical education, and shared values in fostering peace at both local and global levels. The seminar has highlighted the critical role of Samagam, or the confluence of minds and ideas, in building mutual understanding, empathy, and cooperation among individuals and communities. The discussions emphasized the role of education, teachers, and youth in promoting non-violence, humanitarian values, and ethical leadership, which are fundamental to creating harmonious societies. The insights shared here provide a framework for practical action in research, policy-making, and educational practice, bridging the gap between theory and societal application. I sincerely congratulate the convener, organizing committee, faculty members, and participants for their dedication and efforts in making this seminar an intellectually enriching and highly successful event.

- Address by Hon'ble Founder Chancellor Shri J.N. Misra

Shri Mishra says that- This seminar has successfully brought together scholars, educators, and students to deliberate on the principles of peace, empathy, non-violence, and social responsibility. The active participation of our distinguished guests, speakers, and participants has enriched the discussions and provided valuable perspectives on how education and community engagement can contribute to global peace. The seminar reflects the vision of Nehru Gram Bharati University in fostering knowledge, values, and ethical leadership, encouraging individuals to become agents of positive change in society. I congratulate the convener, organizing committee, and all participants for their dedication, which has made this seminar a resounding success. It is heartening to see such enthusiasm, collaboration, and commitment toward building a more harmonious and peaceful world.

- Address by Hon'ble Chancellor- Shri Manish Mishra

Shri Manish Mishra told that- this seminar has successfully provided a platform for scholars, educators, and students to engage in meaningful discussions on the role of education, ethics, and shared values in promoting peace, harmony, and social responsibility. The seminar has demonstrated the importance of Samagam, or the confluence of minds and ideas, in fostering mutual understanding, empathy, and collaboration. Distinguished speakers and participants have shared valuable insights on how teachers, youth, and communities can contribute to global peace, non-violence, and humanitarian values. Such gatherings strengthen the academic and ethical foundations of our students, empowering them to become responsible citizens and leaders.

- Address by Hon'ble Chief Guest- Prof. Ram Mohan Pathak, Former Vice-chancellor, NGB (DU), Prayagraj.

Prof. Pathak says that- Over the course of this seminar, we have witnessed insightful presentations, rigorous discussions, and meaningful exchanges of ideas, all focused on the role of Samagam- the confluence of thoughts, knowledge, and values in fostering peace, harmony, and ethical development in society. The seminar has successfully brought together scholars, educators, and students to deliberate on critical issues of peace, ethics, and social responsibility. The discussions emphasized the importance of teachers, youth, and community engagement in promoting non-violence, humanitarian values, and ethical leadership. Such seminars play a vital role in bridging theoretical knowledge with practical application, helping participants understand their responsibility toward society and the world at large. I sincerely congratulate the convener, organizing committee, and all participants for making this seminar a highly successful platform for knowledge sharing, reflection, and inspiration.

- Presidential Address by Prof. Rohit Ramesh, Hon'ble V.C., NGB (DU), Prayagraj.

Prof. Ramesh told that- It gives me immense pleasure to deliver the Presidential Address at this valedictory session of the National Seminar on “Relevance of the Samagam in Global Peace and Security.” This seminar has been a remarkable platform that has brought together scholars, educators, and students to explore the interconnections between education, ethics, and global peace. The sessions have provided deep insights into how Samagam- the coming together of minds and ideas can foster harmony, mutual respect, and social responsibility. The seminar has successfully highlighted the role of teachers, youth, and communities in promoting non-violence, ethical leadership, and humanitarian values. It has demonstrated the importance of dialogue, interdisciplinary research, and collaborative learning in addressing contemporary global challenges. The active participation of scholars, students, and researchers has strengthened the academic quality of this seminar, making it a truly enriching experience for all. I congratulate the convener, organizing committee, and all participants for their dedication and hard work, which have made this seminar a grand success.

- Vote of thanks by Dr. Raghvendra Malviya, NGB (DU), Prayagraj

Dr. Malviya says that- On behalf of the organizing committee, it is my privilege to extend a heartfelt vote of thanks to all those who contributed to the success of this National Seminar on “Relevance of the Samagam in Global Peace and Security.” First and foremost, I express our deep gratitude to the Hon’ble Founder Chancellor Shri J. N. Misra ji and Hon’ble Chancellor Shri Manish Mishra ji, for their vision, guidance, and continuous support, which inspire all academic initiatives of our university. We are extremely grateful to our Hon’ble Chief Guest Prof. Ram Mohan Pathak ji, Hon’ble Special Guest Prof. Ramesh Sharma ji, Guest of Honour Prof. Ashish Saxena ji, and Chief Speaker Prof. Durgesh Tripathi ji, for sharing their expertise, insights, and valuable experiences, which enriched the discussions and provided new perspectives on global peace, education, and ethics. We also sincerely thank Hon’ble Vice-Chancellor Prof. Rohit Ramesh ji and Hon’ble Pro-Vice-Chancellor Dr. S. C. Tiwari ji for their support, encouragement, and active participation, which greatly contributed to the seminar’s success. A special thanks to Dr. Vidhu Shekhar Pandey, Convener; Dr.

Santeshwar Kumar Mishra, organizing secretary of the seminar, and the entire organizing team, whose dedication, meticulous planning, and coordination ensured that every session ran smoothly and effectively. We are also grateful to all faculty members, researchers, students, and participants, whose engagement, questions, and interactions have made this seminar a truly enriching and collaborative academic experience
